

SOHO HOUSE PORTLAND

SOHO HOUSE
ART COLLECTION

Introduction by Anakena Paddon,
Art Collection Manager of Soho House

The Soho House Portland art collection is home to over 140 artworks by 63 artists, primarily born or based in Portland, including several site-specific commissions: Andrea Alonge's textile commission "Islands in the Stream" is the first principal work to welcome visitors to Soho House Portland, located at the main reception desk; Salomé Souag created a site specific mural in the Flex Studio; Jess Ackerman created two bespoke room dividers in the main restaurant (a first for the Soho House collection); Rah Sabino collaborated with female artisans in Morocco for her breathtaking version of a rug-as-tapestry, inspired by her Moroccan heritage and sports culture.

The Main Club space in the House, dubbed the 'Rose Room' within our collection, brings together artworks tied to Portland's moniker as the Rose City. These showcase a breadth of styles, mediums and experiences, with works spanning ceramic, photography, sculpture, digital collage, painting, graffiti and pencil on paper. The curatorial game of thematically linking pieces in this way allowed us to invite artists to create new works for this room, featuring especially-commissioned pieces by Bobby Adams, Lane Walkup and Marlos E'van among others.

The collection responds to the unique creative community in Portland and takes a diverse and inclusive approach to artists at various stages of their career. As well as many emerging talents, the Portland collection is proud to have acquired work by rising regional stars, most notably Julian V. L. Gaines & Christine Miller. The Soho House Portland art collection currently serves as the largest permanent presentation of contemporary works by Portland-affiliated artists.
