Soho House Global Director of Art

The art collection is formed of two permanent collections: the Brighton Beacon Collection, guest curated by queer art specialist Gemma Rolls-Bentley and the Local Collection comprised of artists born, based or trained in Brighton and its surroundings.

The Local Collection is displayed in the reception and loft area of the House. Curated by Kate Bryan, it includes museum-level artists such as Rachel Whiteread, Dexter Dalwood, Somaya Critchlow, Dee Ferris, Harold Offeh, and Magali Reus. David Shrigley has designed a banana mosaic to sit on the bottom of a banana-shaped pool with text that reads 'The Moment Has Arrived, The Banana Is Ripe'.

Other site-specific commissions include an installation in the reception area by Brighton-born artist, Tania Kovats. She has created a conceptual group portrait of Soho Houses around the world, featuring more than 30 water vessels containing water drawn from the closest source to each site. For example, the Soho House Mumbai water has been collected from Juhu Beach by a local member, Soho House Amsterdam's from Westertoegang Canal, and Babington House from Kilmersdon Brook.

Aimée Parrott, who is based locally, has created a mural in the entrance, which incorporates motifs from ancient archaeological sites in the area. The collection also extends to custom fabrics for the outdoor spaces by recent Brighton graduate artist, Miranda Forrester.

The Brighton Beacon Collection, introduced by Gemma Rolls-Bentley

The Brighton Beacon Collection is curated by Gemma Rolls-Bentley who brings together some of the most relevant and influential queer artists of our time.

The work of the artists in this collection, from newly emerging to critically acclaimed contemporary masters, provides a collective response to the notion of a beacon city, to Brighton's global significance as an LGBTQIA2S+ haven, and the role that queer hubs have played in each artist's own practice, their community and wider contemporary culture.

Early records of Brighton's LGBTQIA2S+ history date back over 200 years ago to a time when the Royal Pavilion was newly built and the Napoleonic Wars had brought fleets of sailors to the city's shore. Over the following century Brighton became a gay destination, visited by members of the LGBTQIA2S+ community – many of whom settled in what became known as the 'gay village' of Kempdown, where Brighton Beach House is located. By the middle of the 20th century, Brighton was well established as a queer haven, a beacon city that attracted people from across the UK seeking a place to call home where they could live as themselves with safety, freedom and solidarity. Today, it's estimated that 15% of its population identifies as LGBTQIA2S+.

Brighton's transformation into a queer hub was paralleled in many areas of the world where queer neighbourhoods offered refuge to members of the community being marginalised and discriminated against in their home towns, from Manchester's Canal Street and Berlin's Schöneberg to San Francisco's Castro and New York's Greenwich Village. As LGBTQIA2S+ communities thrive in these beacon cities so often do the arts, as their residents bring a vibrancy and cultural richness to the areas in which they've settled. That is certainly true of Brighton, with a longstanding reputation as a creative hub that has nurtured artists and key cultural figures visiting, studying and settling in the city, many of whom are included in this collection.

Throughout the history of queer art, there is a thread that explores what the concept of home means to this community, why it is often so precarious and hard-won, and why a beacon city like Brighton is so important.

SOHO VISIONARIES

'Working across painting, photography and sculpture, the three artists selected for Soho Visionaries may have distinct practices, but they all share a commitment to rethinking the world around us. At heart they are storytellers, and the works they have created as part of this initiative will be permanent reminders that art allows us to see beyond the expected.'

The Soho Visionaries series, powered by Porsche, amplified the voices of three local artists and members who are driving culture forward. Together, Soho House and Porsche commissioned new site-specific works displayed at Soho Farmhouse, Soho House Barcelona and Soho House Berlin. The series is supported by events that celebrate Soho House's creative community, and allow members to participate in art workshops and talks around the world.
