

HOUSE ART

SOHO HOUSE
WEST HOLLYWOOD

Introduction by Kate Bryan,
Soho House Chief Art Director

The art collection at Soho House West Hollywood has evolved across several iterations, reflecting the transformations of the city as a creative hub for artists. Moving away from the historic monochromatic collection, which was formed of an international lineup when the House originally opened, the revised collection is testament to the strong art scene that has developed in the city over the past decade. The new additions highlight artists born, based or trained in Los Angeles. A key exception to this curatorial remit is the inclusion of two artworks by Harland Miller, deploying typically British deadpan humor, and long beloved by our California members.

Notable works in the House include established figures of the historic Californian art scene, such as Ed Ruscha, Ed Kienholz, Judy Chicago, and the late artists John Baldessari and Billy Al Bengston. In 2026 these artists were joined by an icon of twentieth century art, Andy Warhol. Kindly gifted to the Soho House Art Collection by Mr Steve Taub, this work on paper dates from 1974 and belongs to a sensitive suite of 10 Flowers, each hand coloured.

Works on display by a younger generation of museum-level talent include original pieces by Hebru Brantley, Parker Ito, David Horvitz, Hilary Pecis, José Parlá, Muna Malik, and Walead Beshty. Other key works include Athier Mousawi, Lila de Magalhaes, Samantha Thomas, Manuel López, Tidawhitney Lek and Anna Freeman Bentley's filmic 'portraits' of the House made on a residency in the city.

The Luckman Club collection was installed in late 2024, and features dynamic Los Angeles painters such as John Reagan, Erin Wright, Greg Ito, Pui Tiffany Chow and Emily Ferguson.

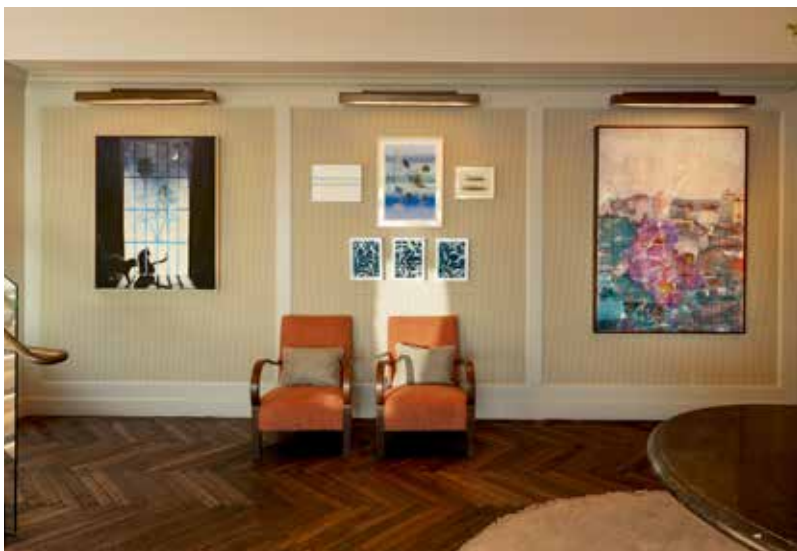

In 2025, a new site-specific commission by Eric Uhler was created for the House – a wraparound painting measuring over 100 feet which is presents an abstracted hybrid between Californian (US) and Norfolk (UK) landscapes.

The first iteration of the West Hollywood collection was co-curated by Jonathan Yeo and Fru Tholstrup in 2010. The most recent collection was co-curated by Kate Bryan and Anakena Paddon, between 2023 and 2025.
